WHAT TO EXPECT

Home Health care is facing audit and denial scrutiny from a number of directions in the near future. RACs, Fiscal Intermediaries, and ZPICK contractors are in place to help CMS protect the integrity of the Home Health benefit, and all providers and clinicians will modify their care programming and delivery to assure their qualified services will remain reimbursable. All agencies currently providing homecare will re-wire their protocols and practices in response to this new (and permanent) level of claim scrutiny. Only by thorough re-examination of how and why we provide care will successful Home Health providers continue their care mission in the future.

This level of CMS control is historically present in other care environments. By reviewing how acute care and sub-acute rehab providers responded to similar refinements in their care models, homecare agencies are able to establish new and contemporary care approaches that are reflective of PPS requirements and other healthcare advances. The introduction of a UR-type QA process; SURCH, allows providers the opportunity to assess care plan production before we provide un-focused levels of programming that may receive partial or entire claim denials. This presentation will demonstrate how to control care delivery required by the OASIS Start of Care document before you or your clinicians embark on an un-needed (and non-reimbursable) program.

As a means of gaining in-episode clinical control often lacking in today's Home Health programs, OBQI Case Conference, a twist on the standard multi-disciplinary case conference model, will be introduced. This exciting methodology allows agencies and front-line clinicians the opportunity to craft care that addresses individual patient response and goal progression. Interactive demonstrations of both SURCH and OBQI Case Conference protocols make this session exciting for all attendees. Don't miss his exciting presentation; this will be the most important seminar you will attend this year!

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This workshop is recommended for CEOs, Presidents, Owners, Administrators, Managers, DONs, and clinicians.
